Sam Peters Building

The Sam Peters Research Center was constructed in 1990 and opened in 1991. It contains many collections of historic value. The first editions of every novel written by Jack London, as well as some of London's personal memorabilia, can be found in the William Corrington Collection. This includes personal items, manuscripts, and videos of the television series, "Superior Court," which he wrote. John William Corrington is an alumnus of Centenary College. Also housed in the center is a collection of Methodist archives, including charters and church histories. Historic Shreveport items, such as out-of-date maps and documents can be found in the center.
